

THE UNIVERSITY of
NEW ORLEANS

Take Your Life to the Next Level with UNO

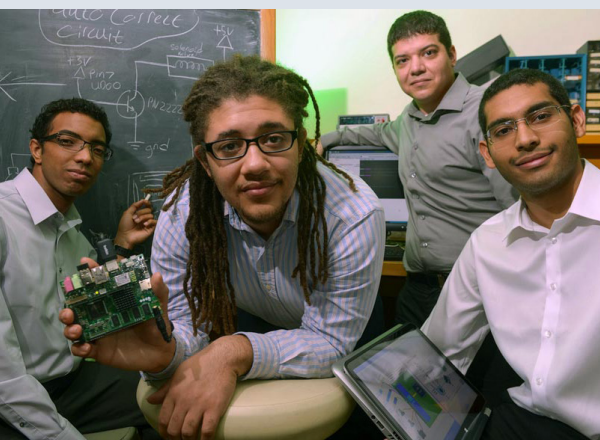

At the University of New Orleans Graduate School, our commitment to educational excellence means you'll earn an affordable, high-quality graduate degree that will propel your career further. Each program is taught by expert faculty who are committed to your success in a highly inclusive, welcoming learning environment. Plus, some programs offer the flexible online or hybrid options you need to succeed.

Explore our wide range of degree programs in today's most in-demand fields.

Business

Earn your graduate business degree and develop essential foundations and specializations to meet the growing needs of today's job market. Choose from fully accredited programs in business administration, accounting, finance, healthcare management, tax accounting, and hospitality and tourism management. Ninety percent of our students hold full-time or part-time jobs directly related to their professions!

Engineering

Participate in curricula that remain at the forefront of the engineering profession. Enroll in the M.S. in Engineering or Engineering Management programs, the Ph.D. in Engineering and Applied Science program, or the graduate certificate in Coastal Engineering program. Each program offers unique research opportunities at every frontier so you can launch your career.

Sciences

Work at the frontier of knowledge and become a scientific leader in one of UNO's graduate science programs. We offer a wide range of degrees, including biological sciences, chemistry, computer science, mathematics, psychology, earth and environmental sciences, and more. With active learning approaches and research opportunities, you won't just study science – you'll experience it.

Education

Join a community positively impacting the nation's educational landscape when you earn your M.A.T., M.Ed., Ph.D., or teaching certificate in our accredited programs in special education, education administration, counselor education, early childhood education, and more. You can also make an impact through internships with community organizations, schools, hospitals, and non-profits throughout greater New Orleans.

Humanities & Arts

Learn through hands-on experiences and support the educational, cultural, and social development of greater New Orleans. Our programs include English, romance languages, fine arts, film and theatre, music, and more. Each provides opportunities to research, conduct independent studies, and complete internships for authentic experience in your field.

Justice, Policy, & Urban Studies

Become a changemaker by delivering justice and engaging with both citizens and governments to make a difference. Earn your Ph.D. in justice studies or urban studies; M.S. in transportation; or master's in urban and regional planning or public administration. You will build a foundation to develop equitable policies and adopt social innovations to improve the quality of life in our communities.

Why Choose The Graduate School?

As a keystone in the New Orleans community, UNO is the city's only Carnegie-ranked research institution and Louisiana's only public research university. In addition to cutting-edge programs, industry-leading faculty, and real-world opportunities, you'll be able to connect with our extensive network of 80,000 alumni that is comprised of changemakers both nationwide and locally. In fact, 47,000 of our alumni are located in metro New Orleans!

Financing Your Graduate Degree

We encourage all applicants to fill out the FAFSA form with their application, but you can also receive additional financial aid as an accepted student. This includes:

- Graduate assistantships, which provide a salary or stipend, waived non-resident fee, and possible additional tuition exemption
- Graduate degree scholarships, which are merit-based
- Additional resources through Grantforward, GRAPES, NSF, and more

Plus, we're ranked in the Top 50 in America among National Universities for Least Debt according to U.S. News & World Report!

We're also excited to extend our Gulf State Promise to graduate students, meaning residents of Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, and Florida can receive in-state tuition rates. Full time students can save up to $4,500 annually!

You can learn more about financial aid opportunities by visiting our website.
